Colonel Canella to-day telegraphed from Jamaica, Cuba, that on the 25th inst. he had an engagement with the enemy. His forces consisted of 1800 men of the Simancas regiment and 20 troopers of the civil guards. He surprised the rebel encampment of Gil and Periguite Perez in the hills of Bayameso. There was a sharp engagement for 30 minutes, when the enemy retreated, leaving five dead and abandoning horses, ammunition and supplies. Of his men, four were wounded. Small flying columns have been sent in pursuit. Lieutenant Colonel Segara and Commanders Rinz and Lopez were in command of the columns. The daily press teems with notices of more skirmishes

ANOTHER FAKE.

How Foreign Dispatches are Padded for Gullible Newspapers.

Havana, Oct. 3.—Inquiries having been made by cable as to the truth of the alleged details of the loss of the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon, furnished to certain American newspapers by the Chicago Associated Press, the representative of the United Press here made inquiries in official quarters and is in a position to assert that no such alleged cable dispatch as that sent out by the Chicago Associated Press under a Havana date purporting to give the details of the loss of the cruiser, was ever sent from Hanava All the information obtainable concerning the disaster was a dispatch of Oct. 2, which gave only the bare facts that the vessel had run aground on Sept. 29—not Sept. 30, as the Chicago Associated Press stated on the Bajos de Los Colorados, off Mantua, and that all the crew had been saved with the exception of three sailors who had not been accounted for. As a matter of fact, telegraphic communication on the island was at that time and is now interrupted and it would have been impossible for any one to have telegraphed the details of the wreck. Furthermore, the strict censorship that is maintained in respect of all cable dispatches from Cuba would have prevented such a fake as that of the Chicago Associated Press from ever leaving the island by telegraph. Aside from the fact of the loss of the ship, the whole story of the disaster as circulated by the Chicago Associated Press was false in every particular, all the alleged details being the work of somebody with an imagination that outran his truthfulness. It has been learned that the cruiser grounded at midnight Sept. 29, at a point 20 miles off the coast, she supposedly having lost her bearings during the stormy weather that was prevailing. The place is a dangerous one, and has been the scene of a number of wrecks.

The cruisers Conde De Venadito and the Infanta Ysabel have started for the wreck to rescue the Cristobal Colon's crew who are still on the beach.

The statement of the Chicago Associated Press that friends of the insurgents here claim that the cruiser was sunk by a torpedo exploded by them is a stupid fabrication. Had the vessel been sunk in heavy weather by these means it is not probable that anybody on board of her would have been saved.

ST. LOUIS OPINIONS.

Some Strong Advocates of Cuban Independence.

St. Louis, Oct. 3.—The Baptist association of this city recently passed resolutions favoring the recognition of the Cuban rebels by the United States government. Since then many of the leading clergymen of the city have taken the same stand. An evening paper prints the following expressions of opinion:

Rev. John Snyder of the Church of the Messiah—Cuba is ground down by an outrageous system of taxation and oppression, and I think that the people of the United States should employ their full power of moral suasion to have our government interfere in her behalf. Our time-honored policy is non-interference, but the time may come, and that in the near future, when the United States must say to the bully, "Stop; go no further." A repetition of the 10 years' war must not be permitted. People in this country have no idea of the extent of the Spanish exactions. Cubans hold no places of trust. Even the policemen and the letter carriers are imported from Spain The Cubans have shown themselves to be of superior merit in everything they undertake. They have a university older than Harvard and their island home, in its fertility, its size and its location, has all the marks of a nation.

Rev. James F. Lee, pastor of St. John's Southern Methodist church—They are taxed and harrassed beyond endurance, and they deserve not only the moral support of the American people, but the active assistance of the United States. Cuba has been crushed and oppressed until forbearance not only ceases to be a virtue, but becomes actual cowardice.

Rev. Dr. S. J. Nicholls, Second Presbyterian church—If it be true that the majority of the Cuban people want freedom then as soon as they make a display of strength they should be recognized as a belligerent nation by the United States.

SHOT HIS COLONEL.

A Drunken Soldier's Escapade at Fort Sheridan.

Chicago, Oct 3. Col. R. E. A. Crofton of the United States army was shot and wounded this afternoon at Fort Sheridan by First Lieut. Prague. At 4 o'clock while the Colonel was reviewing dress parade, Lieut. Prague, who had been confined in the hospital, came upon the grounds and deliberately fired three shots at his superior officer. The first shot went wide of its mark, the second went through the Colonel's coat and the third grazed his abdomen.

Prague would have fired again had not the Colonel jumped from his horse and grappled with him. Lieut. Prague had been drinking and was practically a maniac, and being so much younger and stronger than Col. Crofton, the latter was no match for him and was thrown to the ground before others rushed to the rescue and disarmed the would-be murderer. As soon as Prague was subdued an ambulance was called to remove the wounded colonel, and Lieut. Prague himself was escorted to the guardhouse, where he is now being closely watched.

Why the young lieutenant should have attempted to take the life of his colonel seems to be something of a mystery, though it is known he is hardly responsible for his actions. Prague is addicted to drink, and has on two occasions been an inmate of the establishment for drunkards at Dwight. It appears that he has lately gone back to his old habits and was to-day in the army hospital getting rid of the effects of his last spree. In some way he got past the hospital guards and was not missed until after the shooting occurred.

The affair has caused great excitement at Fort Sheridan, and the escape of Col. Crofton, who is the commandant at the post, from death is considered miraculous. The wound is not thought to be dangerous, though painful.

Pasteur's Funeral.

Paris, Oct. 3.—More than 20,000 persons marched in single file past the coffin of Prof. Louis Pasteur to-day and viewed the body of the dead chemist and scientist, which lies in the Pasteur Institute. A provisional altar has been erected in the cathedral of Notre Dame, in which the religious obsequies will take place on Saturday. The interior of the cathedral is draped with mourning cloths and emblems and the edifice presents an aspect similar to that which marked it upon the occasion of the funeral of President Carnot. In the seat which has been occupied by Prof. Pasteur is a prie-dieu covered with black velvet. The canopy which covers the catafalque is surmounted by four plumes. Silver cables will be attached to the funeral car.

Reported Newspaper Purchase.

New York, Oct. 3.—A special to The Sun from San Francisco says: It is reported here to-day that William R. Hearst, proprietor of the San Francisco Examiner, has bought the New York Times. It is known he tried to purchase this paper two years ago. He sent to-day for two of his best artists to start for New York immediately and his managing editor, Sam Chamberlain, is now in New York, called there suddenly by wire.

At the office of the New York Times it was said that it was not the paper Mr. Hearst had bought There were denials also at the offices of several newspapers which have been said to be for sale.

At The Morning Journal office it was not known whether or not Mr. Hearst bought that journal. Mr. Hearst is in town.

Not a Serious Matter.

London, Oct. 3.—The Post will to-morrow say that inquiries made at the American embassy elicited the information that nothing was known there of the report that Ambassador Bayard had been instructed to notify Great Britain that unless the Venezuelan question shall be submitted to arbitration within 90 days the United States government would enforce the Monroe doctrine. The embassy officials added that no such letter of instruction had been received.

The Post says that the report could hardly be treated seriously.

UNPRECEDENTED.

CONVENTION WORK YESTERDAY.

Slow Progress Made in Considering the Important Report—Foes of Revision Have a Majority—No Change of Name.

Minneapolis, Oct. 3.—The prospect of a battle royal over the disposition to be made of the revision report, brought the clerical and lay delegates to the Episcopal convention out in force at Gethsemane Church this morning, while the galleries were crowded with local and visiting churchmen and churchwomen. For half an hour before Dr. Morgan Dix called the session to order, the friends and opponents of the proposed new constitution and canons, consideration of which had been made the special order over all other business, gathered in the aisles and pews and engaged in discussing methods of procedure and policy with animation. The revisionists following out the programme inaugurated yesterday afternoon, seemed determined to press for a full consideration of the report thus early in the convention, while the antis were disposed as a temporary expedient to refer it to a special committee of the house of deputies in the hope that this might result in its being indefinitely "hung up."

At the outset of the session, Dr. Dix announced the committees on the state of church, new dioceses, canons, the prayer-book and other subjects to be brought before the convention, which were sufficiently numerous to give nearly everyone of the delegates work for the future. On the order of memorials, petitions praying for the creation of new dioceses were presented by the delegations from California, Maryland, Kentucky and northern Michigan, and referred. A humorous episode grew out of a motion by Dr. Thrall of Michigan, inviting the bishops to be present at the reception to the Canadian delegates this afternoon. The resolution used the expression "American Church," and this was taken exception to by Dr. Carmichael of Virginia, who contended that the denomination had no other title than the "Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States."

An amendment thus correcting the resolution was defeated by a viva voce vote and amid much laughter a division was demanded. It resulted in a vote of 72 to 62 for the term "American Church," and the resolution stood.

It happens that the Methodist conference in northern Minnesota is now in session a few blocks distant, with Bishop Fowler presiding, and in a spirit of good will, Major Samuel Mahon of Ottumwa, Ia., moved that the house send fraternal greetings to the Methodist gathering with assurances of its sympathy and joy in the abundance of their Christian labors. Vigorous objection was entered, however, by Delegate Fairbanks of Florida, who characterized it as an extraordinary and unusual proceeding, and as one objected the resolution went on the calendar. This disposition, however, was not satisfactory to the convention at large and in behalf of the entire Iowa delegation, Rev. Dr. Green of Cedar Rapids pressed for immediate consideration. The necessary two-thirds vote to take the resolution from the calendar and its adoption was urged in a vigorous speech by Dr. Green, who said that the house should manifest its Christian courtesy and consistence and rid the church of the oft-repeated reproach that it simply spoke empty syllables and that its heart was not in the cause of Christian unity. Delegate Fairbanks of Florida contended that the body of Methodists now in session was not a general conference, but a mere fragmentary affair and it would be setting a bad precedent in many respects to send greetings to a small sectional Christian body. The house, however, was of a contrary opinion and the greetings were adopted by a viva voce vote of about 300 to 20.

This is the first time in the history of a general convention of the Episcopal Church that greetings have been sent to a conference of another denomination, and the action is regarded as a significant mark of the advance of Christian unity.

When the hour arrived for the special order, Dr Hoffman, in behalf of the revision committee made a brief explanatory statement. Himself and his associates, he said, would have been gladly relieved of the responsibility, but once having accepted the trust they had endeavored to discharge it to the best of their ability. They had placed the canons in regular order and clothed them in language that it could not be misunderstood and the report, which reflected the views of a majority of the committee, was entitled to a careful, candid and patient consideration. To that end he moved that the house resolve itself into a committee of the whole. This was adopted with an amendment keeping the debate within the rules governing the house, which was incorporated by a vote of 135 to 130, the revisionists being in the minority.

Delegate Packard of Maryland having been elected chairman of the committee, Dr. Hoffman presented the formal declaration of faith that precedes the constitution and which since being printed had been so amended as to include the missionary jurisdictions in the general term "the church in the dioceses within the United States." It was insisted by Dr. Hoffman that the declaration was eminently desirable if not necessary, and emphasis was laid on the fact that the church in Ireland, Scotland and Canada had formulated their belief as a preamble to the constitution of their respective jurisdictions.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Stone of Chicago, a member of the revision committee, was, however, of an entirely different opinion. He was not impressed, he said, with the sublime dignity of even the constitution itself, much less with the necessity for a preamble. The church had not asked the convention to define its position as that part of Holy Catholic Church.

Several deputies objected to the debate going on as long as a single delegate had breath left in his body, and the committee was getting into a tangle when ex-Senator Edmunds suggested that further action be postponed until the committee on rules could grapple with the difficulty. This was satisfactory to all concerned and the committee reported progress and rose.

At noon the house of bishops and deputies sitting in joint convention, received the Archbishop of Rupert's Land, the Bishop of Qu'Appelle, and the remainder of the Canadian delegation and Christian greetings were exchanged.

In the committee of the whole this afternoon, the house of deputies of the Episcopal convention threw overboard bodily the solemn declaration of faith with which the proposed new constitution and canons was prefaced; refused to concur in the recommendation of the committee that the name of the triennial gathering be changed to the "general synod," and likewise twice rejected a proposition to recognize the title "the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States." The overwhelming victory of the anti-revisionists in the matter of the declaration of faith and principles, upon which the commission of '92 had expended much time, thought and labor, apparently demoralized its supporters, and to the motion to reject the new name of the assemblage they made but a feeble resistance.

When the hour for adjournment arrived a warm debate was in progress on the question re-inserting in the first paragraph of the constitution the clause making effective legislation which originated in the house of deputies and in which the bishops had failed to concur within three days. This feature of the Philadelphia constitution of 1789 which is still in force, had been omitted by the revisionists and their action was regarded by many of the delegates as a dangerous infringement of the rights of the lower house. At the rate of progress to-day, debate being unlimited, it will take over four months to complete consideration of the report. The anti-revisionists abandoned their intention of endeavoring to shelve the report at the outset and, as the document when re-revised by the present gathering must be submitted to every diocesan convention in the United States for its action, the contest between the two elements will necessarily be renewed in the convention of '98. Meanwhile the old constitution remains in force.

The only action of interest on the part of the house of bishops was the adoption of a resolution approving by implication the suppression of the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight by the Texas Legislature. Bishop Doane of Albany was placed in episcopal charge of the church and congregations in continental Europe

Catholic Congress.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The priests' Eucharistic league ended its congress to-day by the adoption of resolutions pledging the league to do everything in its power to cause the veneration of the Sabbath, and indorsing the decree of the plenary council of Baltimore on that subject. The plenary council's decree urges pastors to secure the sanctification of Sundays, and specifies the opening of saloons as one way of its desecration. The resolutions, which were presented by Rev. Walter Elliott of St. Paul's church, New York City, chairman of the committee on resolutions, were adopted unanimously without comment. The only other important point dealt with was that indorsing Christian unity.

Rev. Joseph Yazbeck read a paper on "The Holy Eucharist in the Eastern Church." In view of the Armenian trouble, Father Yazbeck's paper proved of great interest. He said that if obedience to the supreme authority and a few minor points were eliminated it would be difficult to discover any difference between the Eastern church and the Roman church. The Christians of the East, he stated, liked the Roman church and would join it if certain differences were reconciled. "Let the shepherds agree and we will follow," was their position, said Father Yazbeck, and the sentiment was greeted with applause.

According to Father Yazbeck, the strongest proof that the Eastern church recognized the real presence was that all the Eastern churches had mass and communion according to the Catholic manner. The speaker asked the question, what is the prospect of a union between the Eastern and Western churches? And proceeded to answer it by saying that with kindness and patience he would not be surprised if great numbers of Eastern Christians would come into the Roman church. The principal reason why they were inactive on this point was that they were subservient to the princes and potentates. Father Yazbeck ended his discourse with prayers for the Pope, and a hope that Leo XIII. might live to witness the union between the Eastern and the Western churches. Prolonged applause followed this sentiment.

A Ridiculous Rumor.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Dispatches stating that Secretary Olney had given Great Britain 90 days in which to accede to arbitration in the Venezuelan boundary dispute are pronounced at the State department absurdities on their face. An ultimatum implies war if its conditions are not complied with. Congress alone has the right to declare war. If any such ridiculous dispatch as that ascribed to Secretary Olney had been sent out, he would be liable to immediate impeachment on the assembling of Congress.

W. C. T. U. Thanksgiving.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—In accordance with a proclamation recently issued by Miss Frances Willard, naming Oct. 3 as a day of praise, thanksgiving and prayer by branches of the W. C. T. U. throughout the United States, several meetings were held in this city to-day. At the principal gathering, held in Willard hall, general thanksgiving prevailed over the prize fight legislation in Texas; the action of the Atlanta Exposition authorities opposing Sunday opening, was praised, and prayer was offered for the success of the Baltimore convention.

The Charges Against Major Armes.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The War department has formulated and presented the charges against Major Armes. They consist of two charges and specifications. The first charge is that of conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

Specification—Writing and delivering his letter to General Schofield.

The second charge is that of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

Specification—Delivery of a letter to General Schofield charging him with using his official position to prosecute Armes, which the writer knew to be untrue.

General Mahone's Condition.

Washington, Oct. 4.—At 1 o'clock this morning Gen. Mahone's condition remained practically unchanged. His physician could see no sign of improvement.

A STATE OF SIEGE.

The Armenian Patriarch Surrounded by Hostile Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS EXCITED.

A General Massacre Feared—The Sultan is Alarmed—Outrages Continue—Refugees Defend the Patriarch's Residence.

London, Oct. 3.—The Standard will to-morrow publish a dispatch from Constantinople saying that on Wednesday a large number of shops were closed and the streets were patrolled by the police. The whole city is virtually in a state of siege.

The dispatch adds that a witness of the occurrence states that a respectable-looking Armenian was arrested by two gend'armes on Tuesday while walking in the Galatea quarter. When he protested against being arrested, the gen'darmes immediately ripped his body open with their swords.

The Armenian patriarch received a letter on Tuesday, inviting him to call upon the government. The letter stated that none of his followers would be permitted to accompany him The patriarch therefore declined to accept the invitation, and remained at the patriarchate, where he is shut in with several hundred armed Armenians. The officials visited the patriarchate and summoned its occupants to surrender, giving them until 3 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon to comply, after which, if they did not surrender, the building would be stormed. The dispatch further says that at the time mentioned the police surrounded the building and prepared to carry out their threat to storm it.

Great consternation prevails at the palace. The Sultan has not been in bed since Monday. It is felt that a crisis has arrived No such terror has prevailed since the Greek revolution.

A later dispatch to The Standard says that the threat to storm the patriarchate has not yet been carried out. The church officials declare that they are not able to compel the refugees to leave the building, and the latter decline to leave their shelter. It is to be hoped that the police will not resort to force, as in that event a fearful massacre would inevitably result. The refugees are huddled together in the building with hardly standing room. They depend for food on such scraps as are brought to them. Seven corpses have been delivered from the patriarchate for burial.

A Consulate Mobbed.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—The French consulate at Damascus was recently mobbed, hooted and menaced on the streets of that city. Fifteen men have been arrested in connection with the incident. M. Cabon, the French ambassador, has laid a formal complaint before the Porte and has demanded satisfaction for the insult to the French republic.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 3.—The Milwaukee team from the Western league and the all-stars, the picked team from the Western association, played here to-day. They are en route to the coast, where they will play all winter. Both teams played good ball, and the game was full of snap and good work. Milwaukee 1, Consolidated 4.

FELL FROM THE CAR.

Two Women Killed on the Kansas City Elevated Railway.

Kansas City, Oct. 3.—Two women, one aged about 50 years and the other about 25 years, were killed in this city at 7:30 o'clock to-night by falling from the steps of an elevated car at Ninth and Mulberry streets. The women were returning to their homes in Kansas City, Kan., after witnessing the carnival parade. The car from which they fell was overcrowded with passengers, and they were told not to get on when they did so at the Mulberry street station. They were standing on the steps of the rear platform when the old lady lost her balance and fell, dragging her companion with her. The elevated structure is about 22 feet high and both women were killed almost instantly.

The remains had been unidentified up to a late hour to-night.

The bodies were identified to-night. The first is Mrs. Louisa Jobe of Clarksburg, Mo., the other her daughter, Mrs. Dr. A. R. McLeod of Kansas City, Kan.

A Destructive Fire.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 3.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in this State in many years this evening destroyed the buildings constituting the mills of the Warren Manufacturing company at Warren, making fine sheetings and shirtings and causing a loss of over a million dollars. Just how the fire started is not known yet, but an explosion is said to have occurred in the engine room The fire broke out about 7 o'clock, and before the Warren fire department could get water enough the mill was well lighted and blazing fiercely. Aid was telephoned for to Fall River, and to this city, and from here two steamers were sent. The mill buildings, including warehouses, were totally destroyed, and a lumber yard and adjoining buildings were badly scorched, as were the company's tenements. The disaster will throw about 1,000 people out of employment. Insurance so far as known is: on mills and machinery, $850,000, tenements, $100,000; warehouses and contents, not known. The town is practically ruined by the fire.

The water pressure was ridiculous. The Warren hose companies could not reach to the third stories of the mill, while the fire blazed in the stories above, far out of the reach of the water. Assistance was demanded and received from Providence, Fall River and Bristol, but the companies from these places could not do anything when they reached the scene. The Providence companies went down on a special train which left here at 9 o'clock. The Fall River apparatus was driven to the town.

So, with nothing to prevent its spread, the fire roared and crackled and gathered in everything within its reach. People a quarter of a mile away moved their goods because they knew of the disgraceful inefficiency of the water supply and that nothing could prevent the destruction of the entire town if the wind shifted around to the east and blew the sparks on Main and Water streets. Instead, it turned to the northwest and the only thing in reach was a coal and wood yard. This suffered some, and it was only saved by the river, whence the steamers could pump all the water necessary.

HARRY WRIGHT DEAD.

A Veteran Ball Player Struck Out for the Last Time.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 3.—Harry Wright, the veteran baseball player and manager, died in this city shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon of catarrhal pneumonia, after a lingering illness.

Harry Wright, the grand old man of baseball, was the best known, and by all odds the most popular man ever connected with the great American game, and he did more than any other to bring the game to its present high standing. Always thoroughly honest and conscientious in his dealings with managers and players, he established a previously unknown standard of uprightness among ball men. His death will cause sorrow in the hearts of all who have ever enjoyed his acquaintance. His close and confident friends, apart from the game, were few, and to them he was a most lovable companion. He was a thoroughly domestic man, and had been three times married. His third wife, to whom he was but recently married, survives him, as do also seven children by the former marriages. "Uncle Harry," as he was affectionately called, began his athletic career as a cricketer. He was born in Sheffield, England, June 10, 1835, but his parents brought him in 1836 to New York City, where he attended school until he was about 14 years old. In 1857 he commenced to play baseball with the then famous Knickerbocker club of New York. In 1866 he went to Cincinnati under engagement of the Union Cricket club of that city. In July, 1866, he helped to organize the afterwards famous Cincinnati Baseball club. This was one of the first regularly trained professional teams ever put on the diamond. The Cincinnati "Reds," through Mr. Wright's management, gained an enviable and widespread reputation. Harry pitched for the club during the season of 1866 and 1867, but the next three seasons he played in center field. The season of 1869 was Cincinnati's banner year. During that season the club traveled all over the United States and met all the leading clubs without losing a game. It was the first Eastern club to visit California.

In a game played June 22, 1867, at Newport, Ky., Harry Wright made seven home runs for the Cincinnati club, this being the largest number of home runs ever scored by any individual player in a game.

CRIPPLE CREEK IN LONDON.

"Hard Cold Facts" from the Financial News by W. Weston, M. E.

One naturally associates gold mines with a remote and somewhat inaccessible country, with heat and bad climate, with all manner of discomforts and barbarisms. It is, perhaps, one of the wise orderings of Providence that this noble metal is so often put in places where it takes hardihood and courage to win it; for, as a matter of fact, we rarely find a rich auriferous district near by the great centers of civilization. Denver, however, must now be reckoned in this category, and here, strange to say, one can go comfortably to sleep in a luxurious Pullman carriage, and wake up next morning at 7 in one of the most wonderful gold producing districts in the world. It is now nearly twenty years since I took my first lessons in gold and silver and their metallurgy, under the late Dr. Percy, at the Royal School of Mines, then in Jermyn street, and in the intervening time I have seen many mines in various parts of the world; but in the whole of my experience as a mining engineer I have never met with anything quite so extraordinary as the petrography, crystallography, geology, and exceeding richness of the gold mines of Cripple Creek, situate at the foot of the historic mountain of Pike's Peak, Colorado. In 1806 Captain Pike, of the United States army, first sighted the granite peak which now bears his name. He was then 150 miles distant, and it took ten days marching to reach the base. He tried to climb to the summit, but failed, and recorded in his diary that it was not in the power of human being to do so. But Captain Pike reckoned not on the the engineering skill of the future, which has provided a cog-wheel railway on which you can now travel from Manitou, at the mountain's base, to the summit, 14,400 feet above sea level with an ascent of 8,100 feet, a distance of eight miles and three-quarters and a maximum grade of 25 per cent. In 1859 occurred the famed Pike's Peak gold excitement, which brought thousands across the great plains which stretch from the Missouri river to the Rocky mountains a distance of over 600 miles. But this ended in disappointment. Gold was found, but not in paying quantities, and the result calls to my mind a well known painting—a "Prairie Schooner," or wagon with white canvas top, or, rather, the wreck of one, the shreds of the cover flapping in the wind, with just enough of it left on the bows to show the words painted on it, "Pike's Peak or bust"; a couple of bison with heads down, curiously eyeing the poor skull and bones, which, with an Indian arrow or two, told the sad story of the gold seeker's fate.

In 1870 I got my first glimpse of a small snow-capped cone peeping above the green horizon of the western prairie. This was Pike's Peak, 150 miles distant, and we were then building the Kansas Pacific railway to Denver. Millions of bison were there in those days, and thousands of antelope, with Cheyenne, Arapahoe, Pawnee Indians, much too numerous to be pleasant, and we surveyed and constructed under guards of soldiers. But Indians and bison have long since vanished, and Denver, which was then a small burg with about 6000 inhabitants, is now a handsome city of 150,000 people, and from the summit of Pike's Peak one can now look down, not only on the mines of Cripple Creek, but on a half a dozen fashionable watering places and summer resorts, with their small hotels, railways, and all the evidence of modern civilization. Rich float was found at Cripple Creek, and men began to dig and blast, interest grew, and many mining engineers and experts were sent from Denver to inspect the new district. Most of them pooh-boohed it. Rich rock was there, but no appearance of defined veins; little narrow streaks of gold stuff in the country rock only, they said; and in the plenitude of their knowledge and scientific training they "turned it down." Not so, however, the tenderfoot and new chums, many of them farmers and cattlemen, who, without scientific knowledge and utterly devoid of theories other than those gained by their work, pegged away at the narrow streaks, which, by-and-by, developed into big veins, and the owners became, many of them, possessed of fabulously rich mines; and these rounded, grassy hills, with their pretty groves of pine and quaking asp, which four years ago were simply grazing ground for herds of cattle, now have a town of 6000 inhabitants, with two railways, two telegraph companies, electric light, waterworks, sampling and reduction mills, and five or six prosperous villages besides, with a total population of 25,000 people in the six miles square which comprise the present gold bearing area. Such, in brief, is the history of the district which will yet astonish the world.

In gold mining, as in other pursuits, you may as well be out of the world as out of fashion, and Cripple Creek is distinctly a fashionable "camp." One of the great mines is already owned in Paris, and paying regular dividends. French and English engineers are here examining properties for their clients, and representatives of Eastern American capital go there daily in search of properties. The worst of it is that, like all other purchases, if you go to a fashionable shop you pay high prices, and the owners of Cripple Creek mines "open their mouths very wide" when you ask a price; but they have a good reason for it. We have all heard a great deal of West Australia. This vast territory produced 2[illegible] ounces of gold in 1894. In the same year Cripple Creek, with her six miles square, produced 200,000 ounces, and this year will produce 400,000 ounces. We have also heard of the Golden Hole. Cripple Creek also has her golden hole; but here is over 200 feet deep, with many levels and shafts, and upwards of $1,000,000 said to be in sight. It is called the Independence, and is owned by one man (Mr. W. S. Stratton). He is a plain unassuming man, kindhearted and agreeable, formerly a builder and contractor, and a good business man. The legend goes that three ago he threw his hat down the hill, saying that wherever it hit he would dig; and he did, and he dug, apparently, to some purpose. But the dollars he takes out are hardly exceeded in number by the multiplicity and ingenuity of his fellow creatures to get them away from him. Blackmail of all descriptions, appeals for charity, wiles of widows, etc., and, "taking one thing with another, his lot is not a happy one." But with what calm resignation some of us would bear his cross for a while, and ultimately seek rest in travel and the security of the Bank of England. This mine produced in the first four months of 1895 $[illegible] profit with only six miners working on ore; but the mine is not for sale. Mr. Stratton realizes that if he converts it into cash they may get it away from him, but as long as it is in the ground it is comparatively safe. One of the amusing bits of gossip current in the camp is that one month, in doing dead work alone, his small force of men took out $164,000 net profit, and Mr. Stratton informed his foreman that if it occurred again he would "fire" (i. e. discharge) the whole lot of them.

About a month ago I had a commission to examine some of the principal mines of Cripple Creek for friends of mine in London who came here, and are now on their way home again. I have just finished three weeks most interesting work. My London friend, Mr. G., and I, left Denver by an afternoon train and soon arrived at Colorado Springs. The town is an attractive one, and numbers about 12,000 inhabitants. Colorado Springs is a very pleasant place to live in, and most of the owners of Cripple Creek bonanzas now make it their headquarters, as it is within two or three hours of their mines. Manitou is only five miles distant, with its iron, sulphur, and soda springs and fashionable hotels, and is connected with Colorado Springs by electric railway, and altogether, for those who like to see and be seen, there is plenty to do. We left Colorado Springs at 11 a. m. the next morning, arriving at 1 o'clock in Florence—a pretty town in the valley of the Arkansas river. Here are finest petroleum fields west of the Alleghanies, with coal in great abundance, and, as plenty of water is also to be had, this place is destined to become the great center for the treatment of the Cripple Creek low grade ores; and when I say low grade, I mean ore yielding from three-quarters of an ounce to an ounce and a half of gold per ton. The high grade ores, which yield from an ounce and a half to many hundreds of ounces per ton, will average, as shipped to the smelters, about 5 ounces gold per ton. Already a cyanide mill of a capacity of 100 tons per diem is being successfully run by Mr. Philip Argall, an English metallurgical and mining engineer, and so far the most able exponent here of the MacArthur-Forrest process. Mr. Argall met us at the station of Cyanide, two miles out of the town of Florence, and showed us over the works, which were then running on ore from the Anaconda gold mine of Cripple Creek, both mine and mill being owned by Mr. D. H. Moffatt (president of the First National bank of Denver), Mr. Eben Smith, his mining partner, and their associates. They were then making their weekly clean-up, and I had the pleasure of seeing 750 ounces of the yellow stuff poured out of the great crucibles. The mill is saving 95 to 97½ per cent. of the assay values of the ores, and charges the miner $7 per ton for carriage and treatment, paying $19 ber ounce for the gold, i. e., the miner loads ore of a value of $12 per ton in gold on the cars of the Florence and Cripple Creek railway, and Mr. Argall pays him $5 per ton for it. It is no exaggeration to say that they are mountains of such ore in the Cripple Creek district, which at present are not considered worth bothering about. The mines of Cripple Creek are comparatively dry, and there is no more water available in the district for customs milling purposes, while at Florence the Arkansas river brings an unlimited supply, not only for irrigation, but also for milling and other operations. Florence, then, with its cheap labor, its abundance of cheap fuel—both coal and oil—and its water supply, is destined to become the great metallurgical center for the treatment of Cripple Creek low grade ores, and within three years I expect to see 1,500 tons of ore per diem coming to this point over the Florence and Cripple Creek railway. The cyanide mill having having proved a success will soon be enlarged to a capacity of 200 tons to 400 tons per diem. The ore is delivered in railway cars on an elevated trestle, where the cars are weighed and the contents discharged into a large Gates crusher, passing from this through two smaller crushers, thence elevated and sampled automatically, and discharged into the storage bins. From the storage bins the ore is brought by conveyers to large drying furnaces, passing from thence to the rolls, where it is reduced to 40 mesh, and delivered into large storage bins, whence it is drawn off into the leaching tanks as required. These tanks hold 100 tons per charge. There the ore is subjected to cyanide treatment, and the gold precipitated on zinc, smelted, refined, and shipped to the United States mint at Denver as gold bullion.

Regarding the nature of the deposits, Mr. R. A. F. Penrose, Jun., professor of economic geology in the University of Chicago, gives a brief summary of some of the most important facts concerning the district in a paper read before the Colorado Scientific society. He says: "The Cripple Creek district consists essentially of an area of volcanic breccia, protruding through, and possibly partly overlying, the granite, which comprises the surrounding country. After the formation of the breccia area, both the breccia and the granite were intersected by numerous dykes and pipes or necks of phonolite and other eruptive rocks. Many of these dykes can be traced along the surface into the breccia area, and probably in some cases through the breccia area into the granite beyond. Most of the ore deposits appear to be more or less connected with the presence of these later eruptive rocks, in a manner to be described later on. Suffice it to say here that most of the ore deposits are either at the contact of the breccia or granite with the later eruptives, or else they are near such contacts." Dr. Richard Pearce, British Vice-Consul here, is manager of the Boston and Colorado Smelting works, and gets a very large proportion of the Cripple Creek ores, and he also has contributed several valuable papers to the Colorado Scientific society on Cripple Creek ores and mode of occurrence of gold in the same. In one of them he says "As to the origin of the Cripple Creek deposits, it may be reasonably inferred that they were caused by solutions brought up from below, through the joints or lines of least resistance, the gold being at the time associated with silica and fluorine." The ores are chiefly free gold and telluride of gold, associated with fluorite, iron, pyrites, and oxides of manganese, in a matrix of country rock impregnated with secondary quartz and also a country rock with filaments of gold and telluride of gold, deposited in the fracture planes or joints. This all seems very simple, when other men have boiled it down for you, but Cripple Creek is unlike any other district yet discovered, and though I have prospected there personally, and made a close study of it since its discovery, I still find its geological conditions and mode of occurrences and character of the ores very difficult to understand. New conditions are constantly making their appearance, and it is still more or less of a puzzle to our best engineers. Some idea, then, may be gathered of the absolute folly of sending foreign engineers to report intelligently on properties there in, say a week, when it has taken just as clever and honest local experts from one to three years to gain a thorough knowledge of the district. It will take the smartest of the former a week to learn to distinguish ore from waste. An instance of this is the Portland mine, which was reported on by a distinguished New York mining engineer 16 months ago, with a view to purchase at $300,000. The report was unfavorable. Since then the mine has produced over $1,000,000, about $500,000 of which was profit. It was being reported on when I was there three weeks since, on a proposition to purchase it is said, at $4,000,000.

But to return to Florence and my story. G. and I stayed at Florence that night, as we wished to have a metallurgical chat with Mr. Argall, and, after some poached eggs, bacon, and coffee with him at 6 next morning, we took the train at 7, and about 9:30 arrived at Cripple Creek railway station. Driving up town with our impedimenta, we engaged some rooms in a quiet house, and, getting into my "digging clothes" and taking my prospecting pick, sample sacks, aneroid, and compass, I started off across the hills to the mines on which I was to report. The ensuing three weeks' work was most delightful to me, whose mining work for 16 years was largely among the silver lodes in the stupendous and rugged mountains of the San Juan region. I usually rose at 5, breakfasted at 6, and by 7 was off to the various mines I wished to see. If you don't wish to walk you can ride, for there are suburban trains which run to and from the principal mines on Raven hill, Gold hill, Bull hill, and the various other hills, all of which are encircled by the Florence and Cripple Creek railway. The miners go to and from their work on these trains, which though they run hourly, are always crowded. One of the veins that I examined more particularly has what I consider a most remarkable record. It has about a dozen claims on it, which have paid almost from the grass-roots, and it is now producing rich ore from its highest point of outcrop down to the bottom of the deepest shaft at the end of the lowest claim, a linear distance of about 3500 feet, and a depth of 750 feet vertically. What makes it still more remarkable is the fact that these mines were located three years ago by farmers from Kansas and Illinois, not miners, and that they have erected numerous fine hoisting plants, done about 5000 feet of development work in tunnels and shafts, paid for innumerable lawsuits to clear their titles, and paid dividends besides. A total of somewhere about $250,000 has been expended. All this has been accomplished by poor men, who did not put one dollar of capital into the work, but paid for it all with the gold they took out of their mines. As far as I know, this is unparalleled in the history of gold-vein mining, and enables any ordinary business man to form an opinion of the property, without going into the intricacies of a mining engineer's report. In one of the levels on this vein while I was there they ran into a chamber of the very rich ore, which is of frequent occurrence in these veins, and I took a sample of three feet wide in the breast of the level. My assay of this ore showed 42 ounces of gold to the ton, and they blasted down and took out five tons of this while I was there—about two hours. But the average of all the ore shipped from this mine, both high and low grade, during the past two years, as shown by the mill certificates, is 2½ ounces gold per ton, with an average width of two feet of ore. In three leases on other parts of this vein the lessees were extracting about 250 tons of ore per month, yielding two ounces, to three ounces of gold per ton, and three tons taken out lately yielded 29 ounces to the ton. Another vein whose smelter and mill returns I was permitted to examine, showed a product of 250 tons of ore, which yielded 623 ounces of gold, this having been taken out while doing development work, and with practically no stoping. In another I took a sample of ore 12 feet in width, which yielded 2¼ ounces gold to the ton—in another 15 inches of ore, which gave 6[illegible] ounces to the ton; and in another three feet of ore, which gave 11 ounces gold to the ton. The cost of mining (including dead work) and delivering the ore on the railroad cars is from $1 to $3 per ton, according to the size of ore-body and proximity to the railroad.

Now, these are what the Colorado miner calls "hard, cold facts." Of course, the mines of Cripple Creek are yet in their infancy, but they do, without a single exception that I know of, extend downward with continuous, and very often increasing, richness to the greatest depths yet reached. The gold-producing area has so far been limited to the volcanic breccia area, about six miles square—but during the past month two pay veins have been opened in the granite beyond, and there is no telling where it will stop. So far, however, I believe I am right in saying that, for its area and age, no vein-mining district has been discovered in the present generation which has produced such rich and astonishing results.

Lordly Pensioners.

The Dukes of Marlborough hold their property under a curious custom. The lands were given to them by Queen Anne on the sole condition that a banner with the word "Blenheim" and the date is placed every year on the anniversary of the battle in Windsor castle. The Dukes of Wellington hold theirs under a similar condition, and the "Waterloo" banner hangs opposite the one just spoken of.

In addition to the estate, which consisted of 15,571 acres of land at a cost of £245,512 ($1,112,710) and which now yields £[illegible] (nearly $[illegible]), the nation also granted the duke a perpetual pension—that is, one which should be continued to his descendants forever—of £4,000 per year. Since 1706 these payments have amounted to £712,000 (over $3,500,000).

It was pensions like this which raised such protests from English Radicals that the government thought it wise to offer to commute them a few years since. The Duke of Marlborough, like many others, agreed to this and received £107,000 cash.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE FOOD OF GENIUS.

Bach never took anything for breakfast but a bit of bread and a cup of coffee.

Gluck was a hearty eater, preferring the pastry to any other part of the dinner.

Hume said that sowens was the best dish that Scotland could give to the world.

Locke said that the proper breakfast for a studious man was a bit of fish and a piece of bread.

Michael Angelo, during the greater part of his life, lived on the plain food of an Italian peasant.

Goethe was dainty in his food. He ate little, but liked it well prepared. He especially enjoyed a bit of roast duck.

Vernet enjoyed a soup made of "dripping" and onions. With this and a piece of black bread he was quite content.

Murillo said that no man could eat coarse food and have the soul of an artist. His own diet was generally very plain.

Bolingbroke declared that the most agreeable food he had ever eaten was a slice of boar's head served at a college dinner.

Vitellius, the Roman emperor, was the most noted glutton of his time. He would eat all he could possibly hold, then take an emetic and begin over again.

Gray, the author of the "Elegy," was fond of apples. He always kept them in his room, and the fact that they decayed and smelled badly seemed to be no objection.

Chopin had a weak stomach, and any food taken in large quantity was certain to disagree with him. For several years he lived almost exclusively on liquid diet.

Claude Lorraine was fond of walnuts and would spend half a day cracking and eating them, laughing and joking with his friends as he picked the meat from the shells.

Pope liked stewed lampreys. Sometimes when visiting he would lie abed for two or three days at a time, unless he heard that there were to be lampreys for dinner, when he would rise and make his appearance at the table.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

DREAMS OF DRESS.

A new cape has the upper half made of cloth, wrought in the utmost elaborateness with braiding and embroidery. The lower half and the collar are of Persian lamb.

A comfortable and convenient wrap is a three-quarter length cape provided with large pockets and armholes at the sides. Over these is another cape and a hood, also a collar that may be rolled up around the throat if desired.

Autumn millinery shows exceedingly small bonnets elaborately trimmed with jet or other beads. One model has a velvet plaiting, upon the edge of which is set a very fine jet fringe. The trimming is of gold bird of paradise feathers.

An attractive hat for a young lady is made of plaitings of very fine cloth. These plaitings are just full enough to make a ruffle around the edge, and there are three of them, one above the other. The trimming is of velvet roses, velvet loops and wings.

A stylish hat is of black leghorn. It has a rather wide brim and is rolled closely up to the crown at the back. It is trimmed with butterfly bows and loops of iridescent ribbon and has a large cluster of full blown roses exactly over the middle of the front.

A very stylish waist is made of spotted taffeta and lace insertion. The entire yoke portion, collar and cuffs are of lace. The silk is shirred over the lace after the fashion of the old time corselet. The sleeves are very full and gathered into epaulets made of ruffles.

A dainty jacket has a close fitting back, with very full skirt. The sides are plain, having just enough fullness to hang gracefully. The fronts fit smoothly over the figure and are double breasted. There is a straight standing collar, with a velvet band, and the sleeves are very large, with turned over cuffs, finished with velvet.—New York Ledger.

PARTRIDGES.

Fortunately the partridge is hardy. Mothers have often been found sitting during a late snow-storm.

The autumn is the great season for partridges in England, where, owing to the game laws, they are much thicker than here.

On Baron de Hirsch's two estates in Hungary 49,205 partridges were killed in about two months of 1895, and 46,543 last year.

Hungarian, Californian and Virginian partridges, quail and "Bob White" have been colonized in England, but have done no better than the native birds.

When partridges are hand fed early in the season, they acquire the habit of living together in a flock or pack, which is convenient for the shooters. American wild partridges are not gregarious.

THE SOREHEAD CONVENTION.

A convention of disaffected Republicans has been called by certain persons in Cripple Creek to meet in this city on Saturday at the same time with the Democratic and Populist conventions, for the purpose of expressing their dislike of the ticket that was nominated by the Republican convention.

In order to estimate the strength and the character of this movement, it is only necessary to scrutinize the names signed to the call. Of the thirty-three signers, at least four are known to be either Democrats or Populists, and of the remainder there are ten of whom we have been unable to find any acquaintances here, and the chances are that some of these are not Republicans. Of the rest, there are five defeated aspirants for office in the Republican party. One of them announced himself as a candidate for county commissioner, subject to the decision of the Republican convention, the convention named another man, and he is now willing to go over to any other party that will nominate him. Another wanted to be the candidate for county judge on the Republican ticket. Still another wanted to be justice of the peace by a Republican nomination, and bolted when he did not get it. Another wanted to be a delegate to the county convention, but was not elected, and so wants a convention at which he will be a delegate. Two or three more are known as chronic kickers. Four of the names are those of men connected with the Cripple Creek Journal, a paper which tried to get something out of the candidates before the convention and failed and consequently is now on the other side. Two are respectable citizens, who, so far as we know, have no sores to heal or axes to grind and who ought to be ashamed of the company they are in.

These men are known in Cripple Creek and will have no influence there, but they hope to find some disgruntled Republicans in this city who will join them in a bolt, and so attain strength enough to threaten the success of the Republican ticket.

We do not think they will succeed, for the Republicans here are not of the sort who must either rule or ruin, and who bolt every time the candidate they favor fails in getting a majority of the convention.

THE CONSTANTINOPLE RIOT.

The disturbance that occurred in Constantinople on Wednesday may have very serious results. Almost any outbreak in the Turkish dominions might have a serious result, to be sure; but this one is right in the chief city of the Sultan, where all the representatives of foreign powers are on the spot, and can find out what is done; and there will be no need of a long and tedious investigation after a long and arduous journey, as was the case when the massacres in Armenia were under consideration.

Possibly the Armenians in Constantinople were partly to blame for the trouble, as they seem to have acted against the wishes of their patriarch; but there is [illegible] excuse for the apparently indiscriminate massacre of them that was made by the troops of the Sultan. To be sure, some of the Armenians were armed, but that was only to be expected since they probably knew that they would be attacked and wanted to have some means of defending themselves.

The [illegible] has waited a long time for the cup of iniquity of the unspeakable Turk to be filled, and it looks now as if the measure were almost at an end. We do not think that Lord Salisbury, with his Tory traditions, will care much longer to uphold a government at Constantinople which is apparently always more despotic and reactionary all the time.

Of course the Turk would not have been allowed to stay in Constantinople as long as he has if only the question did not press for solution, who shall take his place at the Golden Horn. Nothing but jealousy of Russia has made English statesmen for the past half century support a government which in every principle is abhorrent to free born Englishmen's notions of what is right. If we had the fixing of the affairs of Southeastern Europe, we should feel strongly inclined to hand over the old capital of the eastern empire to the Greeks, and try to build up a strong Hellenic kingdom in all the Hellenic portions of what is now the Turkish empire. Lord Salisbury and the Czar are welcome to use this suggestion without other charge than 5 cents apiece for this copy of The Gazette. We will gladly pay the postage for the sake of having this thing settled right.

But seriously, we do not see how the influence of Russia is to be counteracted in Southeastern Europe without encouraging the Hellenic nationality.

We got a little pamphlet in the mail yesterday that is a curiosity. It settles the silver question to the satisfaction of its author, and it proves that the silver men are all wrong by the ingenious device of printing a portrait of a typical silver man who is a sort of cross in his personal appearance between Gov. Waite and Senator Peffer. He has Waite's face and Peffer's whiskers. This may be very convincing to Eastern readers, but it does not cut any ice west of the river.

For a long time past we have been getting in the mail a Spanish newspaper partly printed in English, entitled Las Novedades. It is a strong supporter of the Spanish government in Cuba, and contains every day articles intended to prove that the Spaniards are all right, and the Cubans all wrong. So far, it has not been able to convince us of the justice of the Spanish cause; but it is an interesting paper, if only because it sets forth the other side.

The Nebraska Republicans have made a good start and are likely to come in winners in the present campaign. They are united and enthusiastic, while the enemy are divided into three or four hostile camps. We should not be surprised to see the Republican ticket in Nebraska get a clear majority over the whole field in November.

Gov. Culberson knew his legislation better than we supposed. He has been able to accomplish his object, and have prize-fighting declared a felony, in very short order. It does not seem likely now that the proposed fight can take place on United States territory, and we are glad of it.

Nothing less than the biggest show on earth could have made it rain in the city on the third of October. We haven't the records of the weather office handy, but we should say it was dollars to doughnuts that it never rained here on the third of October before.

The Populists and Democrats are getting ready to make a hard fight for at least two of the offices to be filled this fall. No Republican should neglect to register in the belief that his vote may not be needed.

There will be general satisfaction over the promotion of General Miles. He has a record of which any military man might be proud; and he will do all he can while he is the official head of the army to promote its efficiency.

If the Dem-Pops can find any more sorehead Republicans that will run on their ticket, the probabilities now are that it will be a "Don't want to play in your yard" ticket all the way through.

In view of the visit of the Public Health Association on Saturday it will be just as well to keep your umbrellas and overshoes handy.

It seems that there is to be a three ring political show on Saturday. Of course there will be a menagerie attached.

The Marquis of Queensberry rules have been superseded by those of Governor Culberson.

Do not forget to register your name on the poll-books, if it is not there already.

A New Santa Fe Train.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—The Santa Fe road will put into effect Oct. 6 a new time card, which will lessen the time heretofore made between Chicago and Los Angeles by half a day. The new train will leave Chicago at 6 o'clock in the evening daily, arriving at Los Angeles at 6:30 o'clock the third day. The train will be known as the "California Limited." It will practically be a counterpart of the fast limited trains between Chicago and New York, although no extra charge will be made for passage.

THE WALLER CASE.

Consul Morss Says It Is Being Properly Looked After.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—S. E. Morss, United States Consul General at Paris, who is away from his post on a leave of absence, passed through this city to-day. In the course of an interview he denied that there was any foundation for the numerous stories that have been circulated regarding the alleged dissatisfaction of the State department at Washington with regulations in general in France and the Waller case in particular. He stated that there was no truth in the report that the President called him home because of the confidence reposed in him to get information on these points. Mr. Morss continued: "The facts are that I have nothing to do with the diplomatic service and have not been called home by anybody. I came home for no purpose of the sort. I never said or did anything to give plausibility to such a story, and there is no reason to believe that the administration is dissatisfied with Mr. Eustis's handling of the Waller case. Neither is there any foundation for the statement that he contemplated resignation.

"Officially, I know nothing whatever of the Waller case, but as I have been in Paris and have followed it closely in the home and foreign press, I have kept up with the feeling expressed in both countries, and also have a pretty accurate idea of the matter as it now stands. I received a personal letter from Ambassador Eustis this morning on my arrival in Chicago, in which he speaks of the Waller case and expresses satisfaction at the progress of the Waller negotiations. Mr. Waller's rights have been as well looked after as if he had been a white man of the highest position. Mr. Eustis is a Southerner and it has been charged that because Mr. Waller is a negro that he has been indifferent in the matter. I am sure that nothing is further from the fact. Some of the questions involved are very delicate ones, but in my opinion the final result will reflect the utmost credit upon Mr. Eustis and the administration. In justice to Mr. Eustis it should be said that notwithstanding the persistent newspaper attacks upon him both in France and the United States, he is popular both socially and personally, not only with his own countrymen in France but with the French people themselves.

"My relations with Mr. Eustis are and have been, of the most cordial character, and the statement that I have any ambitions to succeed him or that I came over here in the interest of such ambition, is false."

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

Azote and Fidol are the Alix and Robert J of 1895.

We are, even now, not of the opinion that all match races are fakes.

Grant's Abdallah, 2.10½, emerged from his two year's retirement at the Galesburg meet.

The match race is the sleeping volcano of the turf. It would be better if it were reliably extinct.

John A. Goldsmith is improving fast. He expects he will be able to resume the reins of power next year.

"They're off!" is the spontaneous exclamation on the running turf, "see 'em go!" on the trotting turf.

Peter Duryea declares that Beuzetta was purchased for himself with his own money. Orrin Hickok has been intrusted with her care.

Azote is an everyday horse. He can go a mile in about his record time and repeat it right along. He is a perfect racing automaton.

Judge Bischoff of New York city and Minister of Agriculture Dryden, Ontario, make a good pair. Both rule that horse racing is not a test of skill, but of chance.

The standard lags behind superfluous on the scene: "you can make your sulky as light as you like, but you must put 150 pounds on it. What ridiculous nonsense!" It is indeed sublime.

Williams, believing Galesburg has been "filled up" with all the racing that track wants, is desirous of terminating his contract. Other towns want him. And he would undoubtedly have more luck in some other one.

UNDER THE WHITE TENTS.

Barnum & Bailey's Circus was with Us Yesterday.

The Barnum & Bailey circus has come and gone. Yesterday witnessed the advent of the big aggregation, but they were only able to give one performance here as the rain fell last night in torrents. This is the same fate that met the night performance of the Wallace circus earlier in the season, and is what happened to the only big show last year, so that we can make over the old adage to read: "It never shows but it rains." Barnum & Bailey are not kind and generous to newspaper men or anybody else when it comes to tickets, but laying aside all bitterness of spirit that might follow such hard-heartedness on the part of the showmen, the fact remains that it was the biggest show that ever visited Colorado. It is the fag-end of the season, and the gaudy trappings are a bit the worse for wear, but everything goes to show that there is a pile of money invested in the circus. It must be conceded also that the management is fair and gentlemanly in the treatment of the people. They ask no odds from the sheriff, police or anyone else, which goes to show that they do not have a trained corps of burglars and pickpockets.

The show came in over the Fort Worth road yesterday morning from Denver; that is, a part of it came in at an early hour, but the rest did not arrive until nearly noon. This was owing to a slight accident to the fourth section of the train. About 20 miles north of here an axle on one of the cars was broken and the car smashed up. It was filled with trained ring horses, but none of them were injured. The show was delayed, however, and the parade had to be delayed until late. It was 12:30 before it moved, and then it was done in hurried manner. Part of the stuff was not exhibited. Nevertheless it was the finest street parade ever given here by a circus, but after the gorgeousness and glitter of Sunflower Day even 20 elephants look tame. Many of the floats are very handsome, and it is a clever idea to exhibit the peoples of the leading nations with men and women made up to resemble the rulers, and quite instructive. A large number of open cages containing wild beasts were shown. All of the stock was in fine condition.

In the afternoon a big crowd gathered in the huge tent. It was estimated at 8,000 people. The menagerie connected with the show is fine and very instructive, The ring performance was fine, including a continuous performance in three rings and a race track. A novel feature was the tank in which a unique performance was given. The hippodrome races were exciting. In fact, it was the biggest and best performance ever given here under a tent. In the evening there would have been another big crowd, but about 5 o'clock it began to rain and the exhibition had to be abandoned. The show people emulated the Arabs in Byron's couplet by folding their tents and quietly getting away without any stealing, so far as heard from. Quite a number of people had purchased tickets for the performance, and they thought it a steal, but the management wishes The Gazette to announce that if they will take these tickets to Robinson's drug store they will be sent to Trinidad and the money refunded. This is perfectly fair.

The Barnum & Bailey show is a big enterprise. It requires 60 cars to move them from place to place, and these cars are double the length of ordinary cars, 60 feet long. There are 700 people connected with the show. They are all fed in the tents carried for that purpose, and are fed by contract in good shape. There are 500 horses used altogether, and it costs a small fortune to feed the animals and stock every day. Last Wednesday the tent was blown to pieces at Burlington, Ia., in a storm; that is the top was. The showmen say that there was not a piece of it left big enough to cover a table. The next day they showed at Ottumwa without a top and there were people mean enough to gather on the hills above and take in the exhibition for nothing. It is hard to think of anything that would break the hearts of the management of this show so quickly as that. It cost $500 expressage to get the old top from Bridgeport, Conn., which reached them at Council Bluffs. The show did not do a very big business at Cheyenne, but had two immense days in Denver.

There were crowds of people in town yesterday from the country and from neighboring towns. The business of the town was pretty much suspended on account of the show, and the teachers found it necessary to close the schools in the morning, as such pupils as did get there were in no humor for recitations.

Small Burglaries.

Two burglaries were reported to the police yesterday. The houses of W. E. Fristo and Wallace Peck were entered yesterday while the families were away, and in both cases small quantities of jewelry were taken.

Wednesday night the shoe store of Holmes & Sumner was entered and a quantity of shoes taken. These were afterwards found by the police where the thieves had tried to bury them.

The jury in the divorce suit of Nordstrom vs. Nordstrom, in the County Court, was out from Wednesday night until 5 o'clock last evening. The verdict finds Nordstrom guilty of cruelty and acquits Mrs. Nordstrom of the charge of adultery, and the court will allow her a divorce.

Cards have been received in this city announcing the marriage of Mr. Ernest John Russell and Miss Elizabeth Bell Dunlap, daughter of Dr. Dunlap of Springfield, O. The marriage occurred on the 25th. Mr. Russell is a Colorado Springs boy who left here several years ago.

Mr. Graham Babcock and bride, who were recently married in a quite romantic manner at Glenwood, are guests at the Antlers, accompanied by Mrs. Church and daughter of St. Louis. The ladies are daughters of Mr. Myers, the wealthy tobacco manufacturer of St. Louis.

There will be a special meeting of the Patriotic Daughters of America this evening, and the members are requested to be present

The Y. P. S. C. E. social of the First Congregational church has been postponed until to-morrow evening. The social is to be held at the residence of Mr. F. L. Martin.

Mr. A. G. Hatry of Pittsburg, Pa., who is largely interested in Cripple Creek, is again in the city, a guest at the Antlers.

A 20-Round Draw.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 3.—After an hour and a half's fighting the 20-round contest between Johnny Van Heest and Tommy White to-night, the referee declared the fight a draw. White repeatedly asked Van Heest not to clinch, but to stand up and fight fair, and not to hang on after clinching.

NOW A LAW.

The Texas Anti-Prize-Fight Bill Completed and Signed.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 3.—The anti-prize fight bill which was passed by both houses yesterday was sent to the Governor this afternoon by the Senate and he signed it at 5 o'clock and it is now a law. Gov. Culberson received many congratulatory telegrams from every section to-day and he says he feels very proud of the way the Legislature has backed him up in the matter. The representatives say that private information to them from their homes gives evidence that in voting to quarantine prize fighting from Texas soil, they have done that which meets with universal approval. The excitement being over now the hotel lobbies are clear.

The Legislature will adjourn sine die Monday, and in the meantime consider some bills purely of a local nature.

WHERE WILL THEY FIGHT?

Maybe in Mexico, but Not in Indian Territory.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Minister Romero of Mexico, speaking without official information on the subject, inclined to the belief this afternoon that the proposed Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight might be brought off within the Mexican borders, if all parties concerned so agreed. The place said to have been selected is in the State of Tamaulipas, which touches the southern border of Texas, on the Rio Grande, and is convenient to the railroads. There appears to be no existing law that will prevent the fight there.

Speaking of this possibility, Mr. Romero said that as a general proposition, the various States of Mexico are independent and supreme over their own territory in regard to police regulations, the federal government exercising control only at the seat of government, the [illegible] Mexico. Although he could not [illegible]tiveness, Mr. Romero was inclined to believe that the State of Tamaulipas had no law against prize fighting. President Diaz had been quoted as being opposed to the fight taking place in Mexico, but this opposition, as Minister Romero understands it, was restricted to the City of Mexico itself. Although the President had no authority over the State of Tamaulipas, any suggestion from him to the Governor of that State, Mr. Romero thought, would have much weight. As to the question as the whether the fight would take place on Mexican soil, Mr. Romero had no opinion to express.

Attorney General Harmon says there is no probability that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight will occur in the Indian Territory. The government, for a moment, will not sanction it, and should the attempt be made, troops, if necessary, would be called out to stop it.

A Bid for the Fight.

Kansas City, Oct. 3.—A special from Perry, O. T., says that Dick Plunkett, one of the best known sports in the West, telegraphed Dan Stuart this afternoon that Perry would give $25,000 for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons mill. The law against prize fighting in Oklahoma makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not to exceed $500, or one year in the county jail. This town offered $50,000 for the Corbett-Mitchell fight. A meeting of business men will be held to-night to take active steps in the matter.

May Fight in Georgia.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3.—Champion Corbett and party left Atlanta for Montgomery at 7 o'clock this morning. Corbett says he has heard nothing as yet from Dan Stuart, but he has telegraphed that he was ready to go into the Indian Territory, Arizona, or even to Mexico, before allowing Fitzsimmons to escape him. If he is to go to Mexico, all he now asks is reasonable protection from the authorities there.

Several of the influential members of the Exposition committee in Atlanta are talking of trying to make the fight a feature of the fair there, and it is said that the Governor of Georgia has liberal ideas on the idea of boxing. Corbett will arrive in San Antonio Sunday.

ARMY CHANGES.

General Miles Will Assume Command Saturday

Washington, Oct. 3.—General Thomas H. Ruger left this afternoon for New York, and to-morrow will relieve General Nelson A. Miles of the command of the Department of the East at Governor's Island.

General Miles will arrive at Washington late to-morrow afternoon and assume command of the army Saturday morning. The ceremony will be very simple. It is expected that General Miles will call on the Secretary of War to-morrow afternoon, if he arrives from New York in time. Saturday morning he will step into General Schofield's office on the first floor of the War department building and a few minutes later issue an order announcing the fact that he is in command and proclaiming the names of his staff officers.

Colonel Henry C. Corbin, who has been assigned to New York as adjutant general of the Department of the East, will not leave until the latter part of October. While Colonel Corbin has lived in Cincinnati, San Francisco, Chicago and Washington, his residence has been retained in Cincinnati, where he is entitled to vote. He is a Republican in politics and has voted but once in his life. He is paired at every election in favor of the Republican nominee.

An Abandoned Steamer.

London, Oct. 3.—The British steamer Sicilia, abandoned, came ashore at Port Queenay this morning. A boat containing 16 of her crew in an exhausted condition arrived at Padistow, Cornwall, prior to the coming ashore of the steamer. The Cicilia was bound for Barcelona. She experienced severe weather during which her cargo shifted and she was thrown on her beam ends, shipping much water.

His Own Grandfather.

Many years ago the following, which is worth reproducing here, was published in the newspapers: "William Harman, who committed suicide at Titusville, Pa., a short time since, did so because some one had convinced him that he was his own grandfather. Here is a copy of the singular letter he left: 'I married a widow who had a grown up daughter. My father visited us often, fell in love with my stepdaughter and married her. Thus he became my son-in-law, and my stepdaughter became my mother, because she was my father's wife. Soon after this my wife gave birth to a son, which of course was my father's brother in law and my uncle, for he was the brother of my stepmother. My father's wife also became the mother of a son. He was of course my brother and also my grandchild, for he was the son of my daughter. Accordingly my wife was my grandmother, because she was my mother's mother. I was my wife's husband and grandchild at one and the same time, and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather I was my own grandfather.' "

THE MINING EXCHANGE.

Colorado Springs, Oct. 3.—A very fair amount of business was transacted at the Exchange this morning with the bulk of the trading in the unlisted stocks. In the listed stocks Argentum Juniata was again prominent and on this occasion was the heaviest seller. The total amounted to over 7,000 shares and the price ranged from 67 to 68. The bulk of the trading was at the lower figure which predominated to the close of the call, the stock winding up with 67 the best bid. The next most active stock was Creede and Cripple Creek with a total of 5000 shares. The stock sold at 2⅝ and 2¾, the greater quantity going at the cheaper price, though it wound up in very good demand at 2¾. Alamo had a total of 4000 sales, all of which went at 4½. On account of the healthy talk about the company it is very strong and the stock was still in good demand at the selling figure at the close of the call. Specimen, Summit and Portland were each credited with 1000 sales but there was hardly any change in price over the previous day though the two latter appeared to be a little weaker at the close. Anaconda dropped off several points and was a seller at 63. Mollie is decidedly weaker with plenty of offerings at 53. Work had a couple of thousand sales at 6. The total sales in the listed stocks for the day amounted to [illegible] shares.

Denver, Oct. 3.—The market was still dull and there was no news to affect the price. It is thought, however, that the dull time has had its day and a revival is looked for very soon. All the old favorites remained dull with the exception of Addie C., which came to the front with a total of 45,000 sales but without any improvement in price. Eclipse was also well up in sales with a total of 45,000 shares but the price is decidedly weak. Bangkok appears to have reached low-water again, 11½ being the best bid for it at the close. The total sales amounted to 161,650 shares, of which 137,650 were in the listed stocks.

Increased Gold Production.

Washington, Oct. 3.—United States Mint Director Preston to-day received unofficial information from Russia to the effect that the gold production of Siberia would this year exceed the output of last year, when Russia produced $25,000,000 of gold. Mr. Preston estimates that gold production of the world this year at more than $200,000,000, and that of the United States at $46,000,000, being an increase over last year of about $6,000,000.

Cited for Contempt.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 3.—Judge Hanford has cited Thomas F. Oakes, Henry C. Payne and Henry C. Rouse to appear in his court and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt in failing to file their accounts as directed by his honor, and answer charges made by President Brayton Ives, of the Northern Pacific Railroad company. They must do so by 10 a. m. o'clock on the 31st.

The order, which was not made public until to-day, was issued yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock and served upon Chas. W. Bunn, assistant general counsel for the old receivers, and D. J. Crowley and J. M. Ashton, local counsel for the deposed receivers. The order is being taken East by Bunn and will no doubt be delivered by him to the men about whom there is so much discussion.

The Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange.

Colorado Springs, Oct. 3.—There was not much doing at the Board of Trade this morning, the total sales being under [illegible] shares. The heaviest trader was found in Fannie B., which had 15,000 sales and closed in fair demand at $4 per 1000. In the listed stocks Sacremento was the heaviest seller with a total of 10,000 shares, which, while not strong, shows a slight improvement over a few days ago. Only three other stocks reached over the 5000 mark, and these were Alamo, Gold Standard and Temomj. They all showed considerable strength and wound up in demand at good figures. Alamo sold as high as 4¾ and closed with 4¾ actively bid for it. Gold Standard remained about the same as upon the previous day, selling around the 11 mark, and Temomj was lively at 8¾ and 8⅝. The other most active stocks were Princess E. and Pappoose. The total sales for the call amounted to 81,500 shares.

TO OUTDO THE MARDI GRAS.

Slaves of the Silver Serpent will Hold High Carnival in Denver.

Denver, Oct. 3.—The Slaves of the Silver Serpent is the name of the new mystic order which has sprung into existence in Denver. Under its auspices a grand allegorical pageant is to be given on the last night of the Festival of Mountain and Plain, Oct. 18, to be followed by a ball in which the Slaves in gorgeous costumes will take part of the grand march. The night pageant will be the grandest and most brilliant spectacle, it is promised, ever seen in the West. It will rival the ideal Mardi Gras and outdo the best efforts of the Veiled Prophets or Priests of Pallas. This is the first time that such a spectacle has been attempted in Colorado, and it is certain to excite unusual interest. The Slaves of the Silver Serpent is a secret and honor-bound organization. Its members are not known even to the festival directors, save in a general way that they embrace some of the best known and most popular and enterprising citizens who will spare no expense to make their pageant a magnificent success. The object to be presented is still a carefully-guarded secret, but it is certain to be in keeping with and worthy of the occasion. The floats will be elaborate affairs, costing thousands of dollars and the costuming of the hundred or more characters will be of the richest. In the founding of the mystic order all the best features of similar organizations in New Orleans, Kansas City, St. Louis and other cities, which for years have been giving annual pageants with splendid success, were combined. The result will be that the first spectacle given by the Slaves of the Silver Serpent will be as perfect as lavish expenditure and excellent taste can make it.

The entire October Festival at Denver and every attraction in connection with it is to be absolutely free to the people of the State. There will be no side shows and no reaching out after the almighty dollar. The Festival will be a spontaneous uprising of the people to show each other and the entire world that in variety and richness of resources Colorado stands without a peer. The Festival was conceived in the broad and generous spirit, the people have taken hold of it in the same patriotic way, and it is to be made an affair in which every citizen will take a personal pride. The exceptionally low railroad rates assure the presence of the largest number of visitors ever seen in the capital city of the State. The rate is practically a cent a mile, which is lower than ever before granted to Denver from any point in the State. The tickets will be placed on sale at the different points so that visitors may reach here the morning of the 10th, and will be good to return up to the night of the 20th.

THE DURRANT TRIAL

Further Proceedings in the Celebrated California Case.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—A monotonous morning session in the Durrant trial to-day was relieved by the contempt of court proceedings in the case of Secretary H. J. McCoy of the Y. M. C. A., who last Thursday remarked to a juror in the case that he would be hanged if he did not vote to convict Durrant.

McCoy admitted the conversation, but said it had been made in jest and to a juryman who was an old friend of his. He regretted the remark the moment it was uttered, and had regretted it ever since. He said he had nothing against Durrant, and his remark had no significance.

Judge Sanderson of the Superior Court, who overheard the remark, and reported it to Judge Murphy, said McCoy did not deliver the utterance in the manner of a man who really contemplated violence to a juryman. The court said he was satisfied that McCoy meant nothing by his remark, else he would imprison him for the limit allowed by law. As it was, he fined him $250 with an alternative of five days in jail; but suspended judgment until Saturday.

The attempt of the defense to sustain the roll call for Dr. Cheney's lecture on the afternoon of April 3, on which Durrant's name apeared, failed in an important particular to-day. The roll shows that Student C. L. Garvin was absent from the lecture.

Garvin testified that he was present. Durrant's counsel sought to show that Garvin had been absent from a clinic the day before, the roll call of which was on a page opposite to that containing the roll call of the 3rd, and that this caused confusion and a transposition of the absence mark. In this they failed, as Garvin said he did not know whether he attended the clinic or not.

Durrant's counsel claim that on April 3 Durrant, accompanied by F. K. Ross, another student, left the college at 12:30 and took a walk, from which they did not return until 1:30, when Durrant went to the college and remained until the close of the lecture at 4:30. Ross was put on the stand this afternoon; but he could not say on what day the walk was taken. He was not certain that it was in April. R. H. Carter, another student, who met Durrant and Ross while on the walk, could not fix the date.

Several more of the students of Durrant's class were called to-day, but none could say whether he was at the lecture on the afternoon of April 3 or not.

The proceedings of the day closed with contempt proceedings against Miss Carrie Cunningham, a Chronicle reporter, who refused to divulge the name of the person from whom she got the information that Mrs. Leak saw Durrant enter the Emmanuel church with a young lady when he is thought to have gone thither with Blanche Lamont. Miss Cunningham was given until to-morrow morning to answer with an alternative of imprisonment.

Friends to General Miles

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 3.—The promotion of General Miles has caused general rejoicing throughout Arizona. He is extremely popular in the Territory as a result of his brilliant campaign against Geronimo, which resulted in the capture and banishment of that notorious Indian chieftain. Governor Hughes and staff and the militia joined the public in a general demonstration in honor of the event.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 3.—Money on call 1½@2 per cent.; last loan at 1½, and closing offered at 1½. Prime mercantile paper 4½@5½ per cent. Bar silver 67. Mexican dollars 53 1-2½. Sterling exchange is steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.86¾@4.87 for 60 days and $4.87½@4.87¾ for demand. Posted rates $4.87½@4.88. Commercial bills $4.85¾@4.86¼. Government bonds firm; State bonds dull, railroad bonds steady to higher. Silver at the board was neglected.

Stocks ruled firm to-day, although the changes outside of the industrials were confined to the fractions. The industrials were the features, and of these Chicago Gas was the special attraction. This stock rose from 71½@72¾ on dealings of 64,300 shares. It was stated that the re-organization plan will be issued this week, probably to-morrow. Sugar moved up to 111⅜ on the further advance in refined of 1-16 per pound, but the rise induced realizations and a recession to 110⅝ followed. Distilling and Cattle Feeding was easier. The settlement with the Greenhut-Morris party has not been of any material advantage to the stock. Illinois Steel made a further gain of 2½ per cent., and sold at 82¼. Minnesota Iron rose to 72, and Colorado Fuel and Iron to 40. Tennessee Coal and Iron rose to 45⅞ from 44½ and closed at 45½ bid. The company has been offered 95 for the De Bardeleben bonds now in its treasury and has taken the matter under advisement. Coal and iron stocks are meeting with favor at the present time, as the companies are doing better in the way of earnings than for some time past. The Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Hocking Valley roads are beginning to feel the influence of the agreement entered into in March last. The former road for the quarter ended Sept. 30 shows net earnings of $137,000, against $91,000 last year.

The railway list showed but slight changes either way, but the undertone of the market was firm, notwithstanding the sale of a large amount of St. Paul for London account. Speculation closed firm with prices practically unchanged except for the specialties, which gained 1@2½ per cent. Total sales were 233,6[illegible] shares.

Bonds were higher; the sales footed up $1,098,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—The most potent influence in defining the tone of wheat at the opening this morning was the reports of rain in France and Germany. Then came the predictions of rains for the Western States in this country where drouth was reported to exist to the delay of seeding. The Cincinnati Price Current summary was bullish, but it received little consideration. Yesterday's buyers were determined sellers this morning and it was thought that Linn was putting out some short stuff. The Northwestern receipts were large at 1039 cars, whilst Chicago had 100. Withdrawals from store amounted to 40,162 bushels. Shortly after the opening private advices from Liverpool reported that there had been a break in that market. The news intensified the weakness here. Closing continental cables were higher. Export clearances of wheat and flour amounted to 263,790 bushels. December wheat opened from 61⅞ to 62, declined to 60½, closing at 60⅞ asked, 1⅛ under yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 142 cars.

Corn—What weakness there was in corn came through the medium of wheat and not by reason of any particular force exerted against prices. In fact, there was very little doing either way. Receipts, 366 cars, were 31 more than estimated, and 290,556 bushels were taken from store. Liverpool cables were firm, but they were only a reflection of the strength of yesterday on this side. Export clearances amounted to 211,655 bushels. May corn opened at 29¾, sold between 29⅝@29½ and 29¾, closing at 29⅝@29¾, a shade under yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 540 cars.
